

THE NEW YORK STORE

(ESTABLISHED 1852)

A Card to the Ladies.

Our Opening of Hamburg Embroideries will be of interest to every lady. Anticipating the great demand which is sure to be this season, we placed our orders early, and the goods are now on sale. The styles are all new, and we think much superior to those of former seasons. Ladies will please notice that we have styles in different widths to match, and also to match all Over Embroidery. In this connection we ask that you take particular notice of our stock of "King's Trimmings," all new this season. These trimmings are very handsome and durable, and very much used for trimming White Goods and Underclothing. We invite an inspection of our "Embroideries" and "King's Trimmings," the price of which will be found marked in plain figures on each piece.

Very Respectfully,
PETTIS, BASSETT & CO.

THE SENTINEL AT NEW ORLEANS.

To accommodate the throng from the Northwest who will desire to read their favorite home paper while attending the "World's Exposition," the Sentinel has been placed on sale in New Orleans at George F. Wharton & Co., No. 5 Carondelet street, between Canal and Common streets.

OLD PAPERS.

Good conditioned old papers for sale at this office at only 40 cents per hundred.

CITY IN BRIEF.

The brickmakers have organized.
A large number of persons left for New Orleans last night.

Health Officer Newcomb is the patentee of a paper wheel for roller skates.
James Hively and Charles Wagner were fined yesterday for selling liquor on Sunday.

William Salsbury has been bound over by his wife, Maggie, under peace surety proceedings.

Squire Smock has fined Henry Crawford for whipping his wife. The surety of the peace case was dismissed.

The proposed meeting of the Morton Club to hear Governor Porter's address last night was again postponed on account of the weather.

Mrs. Thomas Heston, residing at 365 Blake street, fell yesterday evening in front of Henry Mauer's grocery and was quite seriously injured.

There will be a meeting of the Committee on Booths for the military carnival at the residence of Mrs. T. M. Bassett, 373 North Delaware street, on Wednesday, the 11th, at 7:30 p. m. The sub-committee on Fancy Work, Candy, Fortune Telling and Clair Boonies are especially requested to be present.

The house occupied by a colored family named Barbour, 133 Patterson street, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Loss, $200. No insurance.

Rev. O. G. Jennings, of LaPorte, will deliver a lecture at Occidental Hall, 490 Virginia avenue, this evening, on "Alexander Hamilton." Admission 10 cents.

The residence of Casper Hess, corner of Madison avenue and Downey streets, was burglarized night before last. The thieves securing $24 in cash and a silver watch.

A fierce fight took place yesterday afternoon at the Indianapolis Abattoir between two men whose names could not be learned. One of the men who was wounded was removed to his home in one of the city ambulances.

Fannie Howe, Kate Gray and Fannie Johnson were arrested last night under the prostitution clause on a warrant sworn out by a Zionsville man who was hunting his wife, he claiming she had gone with a lover to the house.

The wagon found on West Michigan street Monday night had been sold to another party by Keller, the grocer. The owner had been delivering goods and had left the horse untended. It went off and the wagon was overturned. The injured horse was covered with hay to keep it from freezing. It died yesterday morning.

The Coroner of Troy, Ohio, sent no death certificate with the remains of William Vincent, who was killed there Saturday night, and the Health Board did not know what to do about the shipment to Shelbyville without a certificate for a basis. Dr. Wands, however, ordered it shipped on, as this office is not responsible in the matter. Either the law in Ohio is defective in this regard or the Troy Coroner failed to do his duty.

AMUSEMENTS.

LOTTA AT THE GRAND.
Notwithstanding the intensely cold, disagreeable weather, that peerless and always popular little artist, Miss Lotta, drew another large audience at the Grand Opera House last night, and that she thoroughly delighted them goes without saying, for she always does that. She is just as full of vim, bounce and go as ever, and really seems to grow younger and more vivacious with each recurring season. It was the unanimous verdict of the large audience which witnessed her performance last evening, that she had improved wonderfully since her last appearance here, not only in acting but in voice as well, and now sings much better than she ever did before. Evidently her experience with the Britishers has had a beneficial effect, for she is now more finished in manner, yet "sings just as nimbly" as ever, but with less susceptibility. However, there is but one Lotta, and there will never be any more. True, she has many imitators, but the shadow can never be the substance, nor the counterfeit the genuine.

Miss Lotta came forward last night for the first time in this city in her new play, a comic vaudeville in three acts, by those eminent French dramatists, Melhae and Milland, entitled "Mamzelle Nitouche." By an artful contrivance the author introduces her heroine with nothing to distinguish her from a score of demure, heavily veiled pupils in a convent school. Miss Lotta helped along the zest which this added to her entrance by singing her first song in French, and inviting a fresh outburst of applause after that which followed the song by removing her veil, and in a manner, stepping out of the character long enough to acknowledge the welcome which she had received. That welcome was demonstrative, and unquestionably sincere. Miss Lotta's new play is really more clever in its construction and plot than those of supposed local color in which she won popularity here. Of course "Lottism" permeates almost every line, scene and situation, and that alone is sufficient to make it go with a roar. The bewitching little comedienne kept her auditors either laughing or applauding all the time, and they insisted on calling her before the curtain at the end of each act. Lotta's supporting company this season is much better than usual, and is evenly balanced and capable. Especially good work was done by Mr. C. H. Bradshaw, the clown comedian, while Messrs. Frederick Percy, Frederic Darrell, Harry Rich, W. St. Clair and J. H. Stuart were satisfactory. The ladies were all excellent, Miss Adelaide Eaton, Miss Nellie Pennoyer and Miss Alice Brown assuming the principal parts. Last night Miss Lotta will appear in "Mamzelle Nitouche" for the last time. No one should fail to see her.

ENGLISH'S OPERA HOUSE.

Dan'l Sully's "Corner Grocery" will return to English's Opera House for three nights commencing Thursday with a grand vaudeville matinee on Saturday. The "Corner Grocery" comes to us with the prestige of an almost unprecedented success in New York City. Extravagant as it may sound it is not too much to say that it provokes as much hearty laughter as any play in this country. There is a bad boy in "Corner Grocery," and he is universally admitted to be the brightest and best boy comedian on the stage. Mr. Dan'l Sully's work in the character of "Daddy Nolan" is quietly droll and humorous, exact in making his points, equally at ease in pathetic scenes and in comedy, and is artistic in whatever he undertakes. Master Malversy as "the bad boy," Dan'l Sully as "Daddy Nolan," the dog and the policeman can create more fun in two hours than any other play in America.

THE DIME MUSEUM.

This popular amusement resort was again largely patronized, both Monday afternoon and last night, and opened the week with one of the strongest and best shows of the season. Not even bad weather can keep the people away from the Dime Museum. It is the place of the town, and they will flock there by the thousands during the present week. The stage show given in the theatre is especially strong and opens with the popular Belmonts in a neat Irish sketch, followed by the Carters with their musical glasses; little Ella Lewis, "the Infant Patti," whose singing is really captivating for one so young; the "Man Fish" and "Water Queen," who eat, sleep and drink under water; Master Frankie Jones, the greatest of all child artists, in new specialties; Clever Carroll, a good ventriloquist; the great musical Dale, who discourses the sweetest music from the queerest of instruments, and Miss Daisy Belmont, the best performer on the revolving globe seen here for some time. In Curiosity Hall, the mechanical wonder, the "Fusion Clock," continues to be the admiration and study of all, while the White Moors, the fat girl, Rice midgets, glass blowers, and Professor Giovanni's troupe of trained canary birds are the subjects of much interest. With such a show as this, we shall be very much surprised if the Museum does not turn people away every evening this week. Admission only ten cents to all.

THE ZOO THEATRE.

In spite of the cold weather a large crowd was at the Zoo last night, to witness the performance. The management were somewhat disappointed by several people not reporting for duty. The performance began with the laughable farce, "H. B. H.," by the Burgesses, followed by the Romulo Brothers in parlor gymnastics, and they were repeatedly called before the curtain. Lieutenant W. Allen and his funny family created quite a lively time amongst the audience. The Burgesses are the drawing card; they make fun for an audience when it is least expected. Miss Adelaide, the queen of the invisible wire, did very well, receiving loud and numerous applause. The performance concluded with the laughable comedy, "A Banker's Luck," with the Burgesses and Mr. and Mrs. Felton in the leading roles. Matinee to day, with performance every night, popular prices ruling.

NOTES.

The sale of seats at English's for Dan'l Sully's "Corner Grocery" is open.

Will A. Wheeler, of Sully's "Corner Grocery," left for Cincinnati last night.

Dan Sully's "Corner Grocery" returns to English's the last three nights of this week, and the sale of seats indicates large house. It has been one of the laughing successes of the season.

The Maennerchor Society will produce "The Beggar Student" at the Grand the first half of next week. Nat Goodwin follows the last half of the week; benefit of the F. E. Department.

Miss Nellie Pennoyer, of the Lotta Company, is the daughter of Mr. Gas Pennoyer, Sr., manager of the company, and is not only a conscientious and painstaking little actress, but is one of the most beautiful ladies on the American stage. She gives promise of a brilliant artistic career.

THE AGRICULTURAL BOARD.

They Hold Their Annual Meeting and Make Arrangements for the Next State Fair.

The State Board of Agriculture met yesterday to make final arrangement for the fair of 1885. Owing to the absence of the President, Vice President Jones presided over the meeting, and fourteen members answered to their names when Secretary Heron called the roll. After the reading of the minutes a communication from Local Weather Observer Wapenhaus was presented, concerning the establishment of a State Signal Service Office, co-operate with the office controlled by the General Government. This was referred to a committee of three, and they reported that "inasmuch as there is a Bureau of the Weather Service at Purdue, be it resolved, that we favor the strengthening and carrying out thereof." The report was adopted. A communication was received from Professor W. H. Wiley, asking the Board to recommend N. J. Coleman as a suitable person to be appointed as Commissioner of Agriculture, in case of the removal of Dr. Loring. The communication was laid upon the table on motion of Mr. Mitchell. The board also tabled a communication from the "National Cattle Growers Association" inviting them to become members thereof, and one from Robert B. Warner, State Chemist, concerning the analysis of fertilizers. The Secretary was then instructed to purchase a number of copies from the Indiana State Poultry Association at $100. Sundry communications from persons having attractions to exhibit at the next State Fair were referred to the Executive Committee.

In the afternoon Mr. Joseph Black, of Terre Haute, was introduced, and after making a brief speech offered several amendments to the existing laws pertaining to Agricultural Board. After recommending the passage of these amendments by the General Assembly, the board resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole and began the work of revising the premium list for the coming fair. There will be another meeting to-day.

COURT-HOUSE LOCALS.

A Day of But Little Interest in Court—Suit Against an Insurance Company.

In the Circuit Court yesterday the claim docket was called. Jury trials will begin to-day.

After passing a few bills yesterday the County Board adjourned till the first Monday in March.

Edward Whitlock and others yesterday took judgment against Charles Soehner, Jr., on notes for $1,625.55.

In Room 1, yesterday, Elizabeth J. Ficus was given a divorce from Thomas Ficus. She was allowed $800 alimony.

William L. Taylor has given $300 bonds as guardian of John Williams and Eliza Hartwig, minor heirs of John Hartwig.

Leanie Lucas wants a divorce from John Lucas. They were married in 1873. Jones alleges failure to provide and desertment. She says that John has for the past three years starved and beaten her.

Preparing for the Cholera.

Dr. Wands was asked yesterday what was to be done about putting the city in a good sanitary condition in expectation of cholera. He replied that so soon as the weather will permit the intention is to begin a cleaning up in every direction. The Council will not render any assistance in the work and the police force will have to be depended upon to assist in the work. This assistance is already promised, and it is the intention to give credit in every instance for work done by the patrolmen of the city. Dr. Wands is of the opinion that the city can and will be in good condition by the time the plague arrives. He says nothing can be done by supervising emigrant trains at the depot, and thinks that work belongs either to the United States authorities or the State Board of Health. The cholera will not be brought here by the traveling public, but by the lower classes of emigrants from Europe. From the fact that this city is on the line of the great highways to the West from the seaboard, and that the distance between here and the seaboard cities is measured by "a days' journey," the Doctor believes we will have the cholera here as soon as it appears in New York. He, however, thinks that citizens will, as a rule, cheerfully labor to assist in putting the city in good sanitary condition. This thoroughly accomplished, he believes that the disease will be able to gain but a slight footing in Indianapolis.

IRON HIGHWAYS.

A Question That Is Likely to Puzzle the St. Louis Pool Managers.

But the Narrow-Gauge Will Eventually Become a Member of the East-Bound Pool—Other Items of the Rail.

The Northwestern roads are experiencing a genuine boom in business, and the only question is how to get cars and locomotives to move it.

The Bee Line stockholders meet to elect a new Board of Directors on March 17. The report that Vanderbilt will attempt to ring in three more Vanderbilt men is denied.

An important meeting of the Western Association of General Passenger and Freight Agents will be held in Louisville. The several Indianapolis roads will be represented.

Commencing to-day, mail matter on the Logansport extension of the Vandalia Line will be weighed for thirty working days, to ascertain its amount as a basis of payment. The attention of the proper authorities of the Vandalia, it is said, was recently called to the rule adopted over a year ago, which provides that no one who is not over twenty-one years of age shall be employed in the operating department of that road. The result was the discharge of a number of minors holding positions as brakemen and firemen. The company employs a number of boys in its shops and offices, but the rule in no way applies to them.

With the sharp increase in freight traffic both east and west-bound the old complaint is heard that passenger trains are delayed on side tracks to let long freight trains by. The fact is that nearly all railway managements have been short sighted in the matter of side tracks. There are not enough of them. Neither are they long enough. Where there is no double track on all important roads long sidings should be put in every few miles, sidings which would hold the freight trains at least and clear the main track. In building these side tracks the railroads could use old rails, which at one time formed a part of their main line, and which are now generally sold for old iron when taken up.

Without the least exaggeration, the railroads this winter have suffered more loss and inconvenience by the intense cold weather and snow than in the ten years past. It was the same old story yesterday, snow blockades being reported on nearly all of the Indianapolis roads. The Union Depot was as quiet as a graveyard, or nearly so, and it is said that fewer trains arrived and departed than on any day in two years. On the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago, between Monon and the last named point, just twenty-one freight trains are blocked. Two passenger trains are snow-bound on the C. & I., St. L. and C. north of Lafayette, and the unfortunate passengers have been furnished provisions by the company. The track is clear between Indianapolis and Lafayette, but there is plenty of the beautiful north of that point. The Wabash and L. & N. W. trains were all off yesterday, and in fact trains on all or the western roads are coming in behind time.

THE NARROW-GAUGE ROAD.

A question that is likely to puzzle the members of the St. Louis Pool when it comes before them, and which will undoubtedly have to be taken under consideration before long, is the proposition of the Toledo Narrow-gauge to join the east-bound pool. The Narrow-gauge is at present in position to do the other roads a great deal of injury. It is perfectly independent of them under the recent decision of the Court at Toledo, as the Michigan Central is strictly enjoined from exercising any discrimination against it or refusing its freight. It is, therefore, in a splendid position to demoralize rates in case it is refused admission to the pool.

On the other hand its competitors, the present members of the pool, allege that, with a strict maintenance of rates under the pooling arrangement, the Narrow-gauge would not be able to command any business at all, because of the transfer at Toledo and the necessary delay. If, then, it is admitted to the pool, it would haul not a pound of freight at the tariff rates. To give it a chance to carry its percentage, therefore, it would have to be allowed to reduce rates under the supervision of the joint agent. This plan, however, would have an extremely demoralizing tendency. As soon as it had hauled its quota of freight its rates would be advanced, and the quoting of a different rate for Tuesday and Wednesday would be likely to cause some trouble between Tuesday and Wednesday's shipper. The other roads, too, would have constantly before them the temptation to meet the Narrow-gauge rate when it was down, and the result would probably be almost as demoralizing as if the road was shut out of the pool entirely. Between the two difficulties the members of the pool are going to have a hard time in making a choice.
